UFO Concern

Dear Mr Roads: It has been suggested that I should take the initiative to establish an informal group of sensible and respected people who are genuinely concerned with the implications of the UFO phenomenon now manifest worldwide, including Britain.

The aims of such a group would include the dissemination of information based on facts, not fiction, together with recommendations for appropriate action.

I have been personally interested in this baffling but challenging problem for many years, and I am in touch with several others who share my view that strenuous efforts should now be made to address the problem.

I recently circulated a memorandum to people I know who share my concern about UFOs, with good results, and I am encouraged to believe that it would now be useful to bring it to the notice of others who might reasonably be interested, such as readers of your magazine. This would help us to assess the extent of public concern which actually exists about the contemporary UFO situation.

If you feel able to give some publicity to this, I shall naturally be very glad to hear from any of your readers who might care to get in touch. (SAEs would be welcome.)

Yours sincerely,

Admiral of the Fleet The Lord Hill-Norton, GCB, c/o The Old Store, Athelney, Burrowbridge, Bridgwater, Somerset TA7 0SE, United Kingdom.

Human Guinea-Pigs

Dear NEXUS Magazine: I am writing to express my thanks for the item in Global News (vol. 3, no. 2, page 8), headed, "Outrage Continues over US Radiation Experiments on Citizens".

These abominations were carried out on patients without their knowledge or consent. BBC 1 showed a programme called Dangerous Experiments in which babies were injected with plutonium while still in the womb. Mothers were fed with radioactive iron; most died of induced cancer.

What is little known is that people in this country were involved also. This was called the "Churchill Project", in conjunction with the US military, to test the effects of radiation on humans. I was one of the guinea pigs!

Suffering from an overactive thyroid condition, I was told I would need to be transported to a Bristol cobalt unit for a 'new' treatment.

After a week of isolation and doses of radioactive iodine, I was informed that it was insufficient. Out of thirty patients, I had to remain another week to receive further treatment. This resulted in my being given an overdose. In consequence, my thyroid was damped down too much and I have had to take thyroxine tablets ever since. Now I am very slow, overweight and suffering.

I was surprised when I read the article in NEXUS. I do know there are some others here who have also suffered, but I am having a job finding them. I am hoping if they read this letter they will contact me, as I intend joining the American group of protesters.

Once again, thank you for keeping this subject in the public eye.

Spreading the Word

Dear Duncan: Your magazine and topics within have inspired me on a crusade for many years now, to spread suppressed information and make people more aware around me. I ask all the readers out there to strike a blow against Big Brother by spreading as much information as they can about NEXUS-related topics that have been kept from the general public for many years. Big Brother has long ago secured control of the public by keeping us ignorant and undisciplined as well as disorganised, confused and distracted with matters of very little importance.

They have sabotaged our mental abilities by providing us with very low levels of education and on so many occasions have discouraged technical creativity unless it has suited their needs. They have appealed to our emotions and have promoted self-indulgence in physical and emotional activities with a constant barrage of sex, violence and war on TV and other forms of media. We have been deprived of what we really need, and that is the truth.

Big Brother has also rewritten history and law and has altered our thinking from personal needs to highly fabricated needs to fabricated priorities. Historical fact has been replaced by historical fiction. Greed has become a primary motive for deception and it is saddening to think that so few at the top have twisted and corrupted the system that we know as society at the expense of so many at the bottom.

Let's not so blindly indulge ourselves in Big Brother's experiments. They have confused us enough over the years, if not centuries, and have found that there is much profit in confusion. Don't be one of the confused or ignorant. Question everything. Help your fellow being and spread the news of this deceit and deception. Thank you.

Yours sincerely, Darren T., Epping, NSW, Australia.

Hormone Hindrance & Help

Dear Duncan: I have just discovered NEXUS, and I am delighted with it. I enjoyed both the articles and the jokes, and am responding to the "Hormone Heresy" articles.

I use Pro-gest, a natural progesterone, which unfortunately is available in the UK only by prescription. None of the doctors I approached in England and Scotland would give me a prescription for this product, saying it had not been tested. All of them, including a female doctor at the Menopause Clinic in Oxford, wanted to put me on HRT, which makes me feel ill in the same way that the Pill made me feel ill.

Then, I discovered that I could have it sent abroad without a prescription. I now get the distributor in England to send the jar of Pro-gest cream to Spain, where a friend of mine mails it back to me in Scotland.

I find it has all the benefits of HRT, with none of the side-effects, and I am planning to set up a distribution centre in Spain.

So, if any woman in the UK cannot get a prescription for natural progesterone cream, please write to me.

I also drink my urine every morning in order to recycle my hormones, which isn't half as bad as it sounds. If I stay on a healthy diet, it tastes like vegetable water!

With thanks and appreciation,

Marilyn Barry, Raphael Cottage, Findhorn, Forres IV36 0YY, Scotland, UK.

Pine Gap and OOBEs

Dear Duncan: I am writing to enquire whether or not you, or anyone else, know of any information relating to the US super-secret Pine Gap facility located near Alice Springs in central Australia.

As much as I have tried, I have not been able to discover much about this subject at all (apart from brief references within NEXUS and a less-than-helpful web site).

If you publish this letter, please don't leave it without a reply, as it is rather frustrating to read a letter which poses a question, only to discover there is no answer from you.

Also, would it be possible to do any articles on out-of-body experiences (OOBEs), as I—and many others, I'm sure—find this realm of human experience intensely interesting.

Apart from that, I commend you on such a revealing magazine, and hope to see you expose the truth for many years to come.

Yours sincerely, Zach L., Hobart, Tasmania, Australia.

[Dear Zach: Everybody would like to know what really goes on inside Pine Gap and many other such bases around the globe, but we just don't. As for out-of-body experiences, I strongly suggest you read Robert Munroe's books, especially Far Journeys (available at any good, independent bookstore). You might also refer to the "Remote Viewing" article in this issue. Good luck! Ed.]

Aspartame Anguish

Dear Sir: I went through the horrors of aspartame in 1986. I was drinking several big gulp-sized glasses of Diet Coke per day. After several months of increasing depression and rage, I went into a seizure that lasted close to four hours.

At this time, I was a trauma/ICU nurse, and the trauma doctor who took care of me in the ER was a friend. I came off the crap, but went through severe, classic-style drug-withdrawal symptoms for a week.

I later found out at the gym, where I was working out, that the power-lifters were 'slamming' large quantities of aspartame-loaded drinks (a handful of aspartame packages into 2-litre Diet Cokes) and shooting up with steroids. They found that they 'bulked up' quicker with the aspartame.

Few people believe in the truth. This crap nearly killed me and nobody wants to believe me.

Keep up the good information!

Automatic Terror Machines?

Dear Ed: Maybe some of your readers that are aware of high-frequency leakage have heard of something similar to an eerie happening I had with a bank ATM [automatic teller machine] one Saturday morning.

After inserting my card, the screen read: "YOUR CARD HAS BEEN KEPT FOR SECURITY REASONS AND YOU HAVE BEEN PHOTOGRAPHED".

From then on, a strange feeling came over me, and my vision focussed entirely on the ATM as the glass walls and building disappeared. I felt the ATM was bullying me and stunning me, while refusing to give my Flexicard back, as the event deepened personally.

Two to three weeks later, the details of the event became apparent through recall only. I was totally overwhelmed from any awareness of the conscious state of mind when it happened.

I had 'lost time' for the rest of the Saturday and Sunday, and reported to my doctor symptoms of numbness in the fingers and toes, severe memory-loss, a loud background hiss in my ears; overall, I felt like I was 80 years old (I am 44).

It would be nice for me to hear that this is not an isolated case.

Regards, Ron M., Byron Bay, NSW, Australia.

NZ Eruptions Prophecy

Dear Ed: I would like to call your readers' attention to a prophecy of Miss Frances Yule, made in 1980 and published in 1982, to the effect that volcanoes would erupt in many parts of the world in 1996, including New Zealand.

You will have heard of the eruptions of Mount Ruapehu in New Zealand's North Island in late 1995 and in June 1996, which may be the precursors of greater events such as described by Mother Shipton:

"Three sleeping mountains gather breath; And spew out mud, and stones [ice] and death./...In lands as yet to me unknown." [See NEXUS, vol. 2, no. 24.]

These would be Ngauruhoe, Ruapehu and Tongariro, situated in the thermal area south of Lake Taupo. Should your readers doubt that such a thing can happen, then they should visit the crater of Mount Tarawera, and the buried village where many died in the 19th century, and consider that the city of Auckland is built entirely on volcanic cones! Some of these, like Mount Smart, have a habit of erupting once every few hundred years and, judging from the observable landscape, the next is due any day.

Prophecy is useless unless it is dated. I think it would be more useful to your readers in Australia and New Zealand if you would publish the prophecies of Miss Yule, rather than the obscure, outdated and unconfirmed predictions of a Yugoslavian seer. [See NEXUS, vol. 3, no. 3.]

Yugoslavia was, in fact, one of the thirteen countries and regions listed by Miss Yule in 1980 as slated for destruction. And so it was.

Anthony B. Pollock, 15 Homewood, Findon, West Sussex BN14 0XA, UK.

[Dear Anthony: I'm keen to read the prophecies. Send them to me any time you want! Ed.]

Create Your Own Reality!

Dear Duncan: I'd like to comment on your last editorial, where you discussed the alternative reality that NEXUS offers, and how it blows the minds of new readers until they form a new framework with which to view our reality.

My comment is, how easy it is to focus so wholly on the suppression/tyranny reality that it does in fact become reality. The point I want to make is that even though there are a large number of people in leadership roles that we know of, and behind the scenes, who operate at this vibration, it only needs to be your reality if you make it so. We create our own reality by what we focus on.

I have an analogy. It is as though you are sitting in a room and in one corner there is something gross and uninviting, and in the other there is something beautiful, like a vase of flowers or a child playing. You can sit there and look at the gross thing or, alternatively, the beautiful thing.

I know that NEXUS is a process and for a long while the lowest intentions harboured on this planet can become all you can see. It is important, essential, to know what they are. But they don't have to become our reality, because the 'real' reality is the love of our family and friends, and all the high qualities in mankind.

I absolutely love your magazine. Thanks!

Love, Linda A., Carrum, Victoria, Australia.

[Dear Linda: No matter how much you sit there looking at the beautiful thing, the gross thing will still be there. Not only that, but by excluding the gross thing you are not getting the whole picture of what is in the room. I get the impression that people read magazines like NEXUS because they want to know what else is in the room. Ignoring problems does not make them disappear. But, I agree with you that if you address the highest in yourself and others, you will see differently what is gross, and for the better. Ed.]

Medicinal Marijuana

Dear NEXUS: Regarding the article on medical uses of marijuana in vol. 3, no. 5 [Aug-Sept '96], did it ever occur to anyone to use the plant as other herbs are used, namely, tinctures, teas or capsules?

The human lung is not designed to tolerate any burning substance, and smoke of any kind contains many carcinogenic compounds. Hundreds of herbs are found in health food stores and none is smoked (that I know of). Maybe the old 'hippie brownies' are the way to go?

Research should be done into 'standardised extracts' of marijuana, if it is to be used medicinally.

Charles Thaxton, Apple-A-Day Health Foods, Findlay, OH, USA.

Too Much Negativity?

Dear Editor: We found NEXUS very intriguing and interesting over the past two years, especially as psychically we have channelled much of the information that you have printed before we ever saw the magazine.

We did wonder, though, if you were aware that so many of your articles, besides being rather out of date, can be very negative and depressing for so many people, could even spread a great panic worldwide.

This is the battle we have taken upon ourselves: to prevent the spread of fear and, by doing so, giving people back their own power to be strong enough to fight off the mind wars that are going on from, and between, governments and those so-called Illuminati.

We do this by opening the doorway to empowerment, through teaching them to dowse, to channel and to heal. This is the way to learn how to be in total control of your life, your health, your work, regardless of who or what one is. It does not matter what circumstances upon the ladder of class, creed, colour or culture one is. Anyone can learn to empower themselves within their own minds, where no matter how hard "they" may try, "they" cannot have any influence unless we allow "them" to have it!

Please, please may we have some articles of encouragement also in NEXUS, if only to keep a better balance? Looking forward to the next issue!

Yours sincerely, Jeanne Collins, Unique Solutions (Paranormal), Hacche Barton, South Molton, Devon, EX36 3EH, UK.

Port Chicago Cover-up?

Dear Duncan: Concerning "America's Dark Secret", June-July '96 (vol. 3, no. 4), apparently two railroad cars of munitions were buried after exposure in the Port Chicago Disaster. Perhaps they were radioactive? I received the following enclosure [extracted below] and am passing it on to you:

"Naval Weapons Station, Concord, California—Environmental Cleanup Process: Inland Area Sites

"Site 8, Ryer Island: Two railroad boxcars loaded with munitions were reportedly buried on the Island after a 1944 dock explosion."

Best wishes, Paul Schaefer, News of the Weird, USA.
